Note: These licenses are expressed in I/O Bytes exchanged with the field and in use. Therefore, projects can contain an unlimited number of variables as the license will only count those bytes exchanged with the field.

Note that 64 I/O bytes correspond to 512 bits (digital) or 32 Word (analog): 1 Word = 2 bytes or 16 bits

1. The license only counts those variables put into use and exchanged with the field
2. Variables are expressed in bytes
3. Internal variables are not counted
4. Network variables are not counted (on Server)

Variables can be used in <structure_name>:<member_name > or bit <TAG_name. bit_number > structures indifferently

For instance: to exchange a 256 Word DB data block with a SIEMENS PLC, you will need to purchase a license for 512 I/O bytes. Therefore the project will be able to declare an unlimited number of VARIABLES, but will only be able to exchange a maximum of 512 bytes (256 word) with the PLC simultaneously.

- Otherwise, if your project only needs to exchange not more than 256 I/O bytes simultaneously (bytes in use), you should then consider purchasing a RT 256 I/O byte license with a lower count. Movicon will allow your projects to peak the maximum byte limit for a continuous period of two hours only and not more.
- Movicon puts variables in use when used from resources (i.e. active screens, alarms, Data Loggers, Schedulers, Logic).
- If your project needs to use the Data Logger, Networking or MultiDriver functions (see option table), you will need to purchase a PO
- PRO license, or otherwise a LITW will do.

NET Multi-station License

This type of license provides the possibility to apply the one dongle for the desired number of floating licenses needed. This particular license allows you to install Movicon anywhere on any one network and enable a prefixed number of stations.

Example: If you have a network of 15 computers and you wish to enable a Supervision PC along with 5 client stations in any one of these computers, you will need a NET Client Runtime license for 5 Users installed in any one of these 15 pcs connected in net in addition to the normal Runtime license in the system's supervision PC. Up to a maximum 5 workstations can then run Movicon on anyone of these pcs after which subsequent workstations wishing to connect will have to wait until one of these 5 disconnect.
